

Meet the Committee

Dr Tony Edge
Vice President, Chair of Medals Committee

Tony Edge is an R&D Manager at Agilent Technologies, heading a team of specialist scientist in developing next generation stationary phases for HPLC. He has worked in both manufacturing and also industry, having periods of employment at LGC and also AstraZeneca as well as ThermoFisher Scientific and latterly Agilent Technologies.

In 2008, he was fortunate enough to be awarded the Desty memorial lecture for his contributions to innovating separation science, and in the same year also won a clinical excellence award from AstraZeneca. Tony's current interests are centered on improving the sample extraction process and high-temperature chromatography. Tony was awarded an honorary fellowship at the Liverpool University, where he lectures on separation science, and also lectures at Keele University on Management in Analytical Science.

Tony is the Vice-President of The Chromatographic Society in the UK and a contributing editor for the Chromatography Today magazine. Tony is also part of the Reid Bioanalytical conference organising committee, and a permanent member of the scientific committee for the International Symposium on Chromatography.